The Latest News from the Southern Coast Storm

EVER THE MOST DISTRESSING NEWS.

The List of the Killed and Drowned Approaching the Thousand Mark, with Much Territory Yet to be Heard From.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—Later reports from the storm-swept section confirm first reports of the awful loss of life. Destitution reigns in the stricken district, and the few stragglers who have found their way to points in communication with the city tell tales of distress.

The Picayune yesterday morning at 8 o'clock sent a relief boat to the stricken district. It will take a day and a half to reach there, as the route is through tortuous bayous.

"Etween 800 and 900 lives were lost by the storm, which struck the island about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. It was a southwest wind, changing to east, and increasing in velocity. Half an hour later it changed to northwest, and from this quarter it blew till 3 o'clock in the morning. It then calmed off for a short time. Capt. Terrisbone, aided by several residents of the island, proceeded to help the unfortunates. He succeeded in saving sixty persons, all of whom he placed in John Boftep's house on the island. When he saw a house about to drift he and his companions dragged the inmates from it. Twelve or fifteen persons sought safety in the house of Clement Bouregard

Between 400 and 500 persons, according to a rough estimate, have been saved out of a population of 1,000. The distress existing there is terrible. Those rescued have lost everything but life. They are sorely in need of water, food and clothing. One hundred and fifty luggers have gone to the bottom, together with their seines. The number of skiffs that capsized and sunk cannot be counted. Mark Piccoli furnished the rescued with all he provisions he had in his store.

Old man Pashia, of Bayou Roggio, was lost with his two daughters. His two boys were saved. His house was completely wrecked. Mme. Raspin with three or four negroes was also lost. The captain was unable to state how many houses were wrecked.

The steamer Joe Webber was lying at her wharf at the time of the storm. She was driven upon the prairie and completely wrecked. She was valued at $6,000, completely covered by insurance. The crew of about eight were saved

Tony Tonich, captain of the schooner Adelina, had a narrow escape from wreck. He was anchored in a cutoff near the Bay of Tambour, when the storm struck him.

The canning factory at Bayou Andre, kept by J. P. Lewis for canning shrimp, was totallp destroyed and all the inmates killed. The value of the plant is said to exceed $2,000. There was between eight and ten Chinamen in the place.

At Bayon de Found, another Chinese canning establishment, that of Louis Loy, for the canning of shrimp, is located. It was also destroyed and all the inmates drowned. The damage will exceed $8,000.

All the fishing camps along Grand lake have been destroyed. All the oyster fishermen have been lost. All the boats and houses there have been overthrown and destroyed, and the scene beggars description.

The Picayune relief boat is going to take on provisions at the first landing and with bountiful supply of water will proceed at once to Grandville. It will encounter a place where a supply of food can be obtained before reaching Barataria. One of the luggers named Young American Flotta, leave Chenevere with twenty-five people on board, encountered the storm and only ten were saved. Capt. McSweeny and family were saved, his house having weathered the storm.

Alfred Palci, an Italian, in relating the story of the storm, said, tearfully, that he had lost all, but fortunately he saved his two children on his shoulders. His mother tried to save a drowning child, but as she reached for the little one in the mad waters the wind increased and the child was swept away from her outstretched arms.

In the boarding house of John Richer there were sixty-one persons when the storm came up, and the house was completely wrecked. Col. Danton and his wife were killed by falling timbers, while the others escape unhjured.

The store of Tom Valence was wrecked and also his house, and his family, consisting of a wife and six children, a sister and himself, were killed or drowned. Armond Terribone was drowned. Alordo Terribone was drowned. Mantil Terrence, wife and three daughters and two sons were drowned. Emma, his daughter, was killed in the wreck of the house. Armind Palci, wife and three children were drowned. L. Terribone and family were drowned, with the exception of his little girl Emilie, who was saved. Leon Terrie and family were drowned with the exception of the three who were saved, being two daughters and a son. Doline Bouzega, his wife and six children were drowned, two of them, a daughter and son, were saved. Thomas Alarcei, his son Joseph and his family were drowned, with the exception of his wife.

The Tale of the Storm Not Half Told.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 5.—The tale of the storm has not been half told. Not only daily but hourly reports reach here of additional disasters, and with it comes tidings of many lives lost. From Baldwin county, which skirts the eastern shore of Mobile bay from Blakely to Mullet Point, a distance of forty miles, and the shores of Bonscour Bay to Fort Morgan, a distance of twenty miles, come reports of great destruction to property, but thus far there has been no news of loss of life from this direction. At Blakely the destruction wrought among the forests and turpentine orchards is reported to have been very great. All reports are unanimous that for forty miles along this shore forests have been devastated to an extent unknown in the history of this sction. Every steamboat wharf, private wharf and bath house along the entire stretch of coast, which were numerous, and to which residents of Mobile flock to spend the heated term, are wrecked.

In a distance of two miles 240 trees were counted across the road of the Loxley's, who had their boom and warehouse at Spanish Forks. Battles' wharf was destroyed and some thirty or forty yards of bluff and roadway were washed away. Half a mile further south Point Clare, the Long Branch of the south, entends westward into the bay. At this point stands the Grand hotel, facing the south, while to the rear of the hotel, the north wharf extends into the bay nearly half a mile. Of this there remains nothing but the gaunt piling standing sentinel over the ruins.

THE WAR IN BRAZIL.

Rio de Janeiro Again Under Fire of the Rebel Fleet.

MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, VIA GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 4.—Information has just reached here that Admiral Mello's rebel fleet is again bombarding Rio Janeiro, Brazil. The fleet, which a few days ago moved into a strategic position to get out of range of the fire of the forts and renew its attack on the city, is throwing shot and shell into the capital. The gunners, however, have evidently been instructed to spare residences and private property, and to direct their fire exclusively at government buildings. For this reason little damage is being done in the city generally, although the greatest alarm is being felt throughout the town.

Many of the private residences have been already deserted, families having fled to escape the barbarities perpetrated by Peixoto's troops. The president's forces are replying to the fire of the ships from batteries which were thrown up along the water front at the time the fleet changed its anchorage a few days ago.

From Desterro comes the announcement that parts of the crews of the Brazilian war ships Republica and Palas, which recently arrived there, have gone ashore and occupied the forts in that city and on the island of Santa Catharina. It is the intention to establish Mello's headquarters in Desterro and proclaim a provisional government. In this city the president is in active opposition to the candidacy of Tajes as his successor, and favors Ellari, who, however, is meeting with considerable antagonism. Tajes is the choice of the socialists, who are conducting a vigorous campaign.

Cross and Crescent.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—Dispatches from Melilli to-day say that 27,000 Moors, including 5,000 cavalry, are surrounding that place. The Moors swore that they would never permit the erection of the Spanish fort at Guariach, near the Moorish cemetery.

The council of ministers here has decided to erect the fort at any cost, so as to wipe out the defeat of the troops, and reinforcements are being sent to the front as rapidly as possible

The gunboat Cuervon has arrived at Melilli, and has been shelling the Moorish forts on the Riff coast all day.

CZOLICS SENTENCED.

The Man Who Attempted to Assassinate Cardinal Vaszary Gets Ten Years.

BUDA PESTH, Oct. 5.—Czolics, the man accused of attempting in April last to kill Cardinal Vaszary, primate of Hungary, was found guilty yesterday, and was at once sentenced to ten years' penal imprisonment, to be followed by ten years' deprivation of his civil rights.

Cardinal Vaszary was indisposed and his evidence was therefore taken at his palace. He at first claimed the privilege of declining to make a deposition. Upon being pressed to make one on the ground that all Hungarians were equal in the eyes of the law, he yielded, saying that he did so for patriotic reasons. Neither the prosecution nor the prisoner is satisfied with the sentence and both have given notice to the court that they will appeal. It is said that if the cardinal could prevent punishment being meted out to Czolics he would do so. During the course of the trial Czolics said to the court that the cardinal had forgiven him and had supported his family ever since he had been confined in prison. Czolics was a cellarman employed in the bishop's palace. He was discharged, and when he presented a petition to the cardinal asking for reinstatement the latter told him he would have to refer the matter to an official of his household. This enraged Czolics, and he attempted to stab the cardinal.

Yellow Fever at Brunswick.

IN THE MOUND CITY.

The World's Fair Commissioners Visit St. Louis

AND ARE LOST IN AMAZED WONDER

While Witnessing the Gorgeous Pageant of the Veiled Prophet, and Joining in the Mazy at the Prophet's Ball.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—Clerk Harper, of the Southern, issued orders to the parlor maids yesterday morning to allow none of the lady guests to play "After the Ball." This was out of consideration for the hostelry's distinguished guests, the World's fair commissioners from Chicago.

The foreign visitors rose late yesterday morning with a largely developed impression of St. Louis hospitality. By 10:30 o'clock the party were all up and had partaken of a light breakfast, after which they assembled in room No. 66 and awaited the arrival of the entertaining party who were to take them in hand and show them more of the Mound city. While awaiting the arrival of the escorts the party discussed their experiences of the day and night just past. There was a good deal of pleasant raillery about disappearances from the ballroom, over-anxious inquiries about home coming, and the Corean delegates were well teased over the impression they made on the St. Louis belles.

The Prophet's parade was a bewildering surprise. Many of the Oriental delegates conceived the idea that the parade was a mummery gotten up for their especial entertainment, and they were highly delighted at the mark of distinction and spoke less highly of the beauty of the tableaux than of the lavish hospitality of a city that on short notice could provide such entertainment for its guests. When it was explained to them that the parade was in honor of the yearly visit of the Veiled Prophet of Khorassan and his royal retinue to his beloved city of St Louis and that the retainers of the prophet who portrayed the different characters on the floats were members of a secret organization composed of the wealthiest men in the city, they were bewildered. That the maskers on the floats were not hired men was beyond their comprehension, but it was explained to their further bewilderment that there could be no secrecy if any one outside of the order took part, and that no man, woman or child in the city knew aught of the prophet or his secret retinue. The Persian commissioners thought it all very beautiful, but was anxious to meet the prophet and ask him why he did not come back where he belonged.

Senor Dupuy de Lami, of Spain, was loud in his praises of the city. Said he: "The commissioners will go back to Chicago from St. Louis with something to remember. The fame of your city's hospitality will now be spread all over the world. You have a beautiful place and your people are wonderful. Last night I sat dumb with wonder while the parade was passing. Such beauty of design, richness of costume and perfection of detail one could never dream of seeing in an outdoor pageant. And your crowd! Why, they were as orderly as if in a theater. There was a hush over them as the floats passed and all seemed intent in realizing to the fullest extent the import of the tableaux. It was the biggest and most orderly assemblage I ever witnessed. To a European such street crowds are marvelous. And to think of it, the characters on those floats represented by your leading citizens! It all seems like a bit of esthetic mediavalism. St Louis is truly the carnival city. I have seen the Mardi Gras of New Orleans, but nothing to compare with what I saw last night."

The German commissioners were equally enthusiastic over the illuminations. Familiar as they were to the illuminations of "Unter den Linden" in honor of royalty, they declared there was nothing in the world to equal the display witnessed last night

ROBBED OF HER CHILDREN

Who are Locked Up in an Orphan Asylum with a Bill Against Them.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—A richly dressed and handsome-looking woman of about 30 years, who refused to give her name, requested Chief Harrigan's assistance in forcing the officers of St. Philomena's orphan asylum to allow her to see her two little children, who she states are confined in the institution. According to her story her husband secured a divorce from her in St. Clair county, Ill., a year ago. The court awarded him the custody of their children, but gave her permission to see them once every three months. He placed them in the St. Philomena asylum.

She claims that she has not seen the children for over a year and that when she presented herself at the door of the asylum yesterday she was told that her former husband had not paid the little ones' board and that admission to them would be refused to every one until the bill was paid.

Mrs. Bull (Formerly Mrs. Blaine) Badly Injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Bull, wife of Dr. Thomas W. Bull, who was Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., was severely injured, yesterday afternoon, by being thrown from her carriage in front of the Grand Central depot. Mrs. Bull was alighting from the carriage. The horses became frightened and started suddenly, and she was thrown to the ground, striking on her head. She badly bruised about the head, breast and arms.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

(Extra Session.)

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—As there were but seven senators present in the chamber this morning when prayer was said, Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) thought that the reading of yesterday's journal should have a larger audience. He therefore called attention to the fact that there was no quorum present. The roll was called and forty-three senators—just a quorum—appeared and responded. The journal was then read and the morning business was proceeded with.

Mr Morgan reported back from the committee on foreign relations, without recommendation, the bill referred to it making appropriations to enforce the Chinese exclusion act.

Mr Dolph, who had introduced the bill, and who also is a member of the committee on foreign relations, said that the report was not unanimous. He himself was in favor of making a favorable report. The bill was referred to the committee on appropriations

Mr Peffer offered a resolution (which went over until to morrow) for the appointment of a select committee of three senators to consider and report whether any and what legislation is necessary to improve the banking system of the country, to the end that greater steadiness may be retained in currency circulation; that there may be less interruption in the exchanges, that depositors may be better secured against loss, and that the savings of the people may be safely kept

Mr Morgan offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to inquire and report whether provisions of the act of January, 1887 (the free-coinage act), are now in force, and to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr Allison took exception to the last clause of the resolution as transferring a financial question to the judiciary committee.

Mr Morgan suggested that the judiciary committee might report that a bill for the revival of the act of 1887 was necessary, or that an amendment of that act was necessary, or that the act was now in force, and had been neglected and overslaughed by the officers of the United States government—had been allowed to fall into "innocuous desuetude." The resolution went over till to morrow, and the silver purchase repeal bill was taken up

HOUSE

In the house a resolution was adopted calling on the secretary of the interior for information as to the number of invalid pensions granted during the year ended September 30, 1893, and the number of applications rejected; also a resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for copies of papers in his department relating to the selection of a site for a federal building in San Francisco.

Mr Meyers asked for the immediate consideration of a resolution directing the committee on invalid pensions to investigate whether any employes of the pension bureau are traveling as detectives to the detriment of old veterans. Mr Livingstone said there was some objection made by Mr. Richardson as to the printing of the resolution in the Record, and the speaker took the matter under advisement

Mr McKay from the committee on public lands reported, with an unfavorable recommendation, a resolution offered by Mr Bowers calling on the attorney general for information as to what action had been taken by his department in the case brought by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co against certain settlers in California. [The report accompanying the resolution says that the information has already been given to the house, and the resolution was laid upon the table.]

A joint resolution was passed extending the thanks of congress and the people of the United States to the foreign governments which had generously and effectively participated in the Chicago exposition, also a joint resolution authorizing the president to detail an army officer to act as instructor at the University of Alabama

Mr Cox, from the committee on banking and currency, reported as a matter of privilege his bill for the better control of and to promote the safety of national banks. [It is intended to prevent the misappropriation of funds of the bank by officers actually engaged in the duty of handling them by making it unlawful for them to borrow any money from the bank except after approval by the directors of the bank.] Mr Cox addressed the house briefly, but at the suggestion of Mr Burrows withdrew the bill for the present

Under the call of committees the following bills were reported and placed on the calendar

By Mr Oates, from the committee on the judiciary, the Oates bankruptcy bill.

By Mr McCreary, from the committee on foreign affairs, the McCreary bill to amend the Geary Chinese exclusion act.

The remainder of the morning hour was consumed in the consideration of a private war-claim bill involving the expenditure of $437. Mr Sayres (dem., Tex.) objecting to it because it had not been proven that the claims had not been paid by the confederate government. The discussion waxed somewhat warm, and was participated in entirely by democrats. The bill went over without action and the federal election repeal bill was taken up, and occupied the time of the house until adjournment at 5:30

OMINOUSLY MISSING.

A Little Boy Takes a Ride With a Man Who "Loses" Him in a Big City.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—The citizens of the south end of Carondelet are greatly wrought up over the strange disappearance of 9-year-old Willie Wieland, the son of John Wieland, a prominent South-end business man, residing at 7600 Ivory avenue. Two days ago Willie left home with Joe Helenstein, a horse trader, who lives in the same block. They drove to the city in a dog cart and that was the last seen of Willie. Helenstein returned late that night without the boy. His cart was smashed up and he could give no account of the absent child, except that he lost him somewhere in the city. Willie Wieland, the missing child, is an unusually bright boy, and his family and friends feel certain that unless he met with foul play or was kidnaped he would have returned to his home ere this. Willie was his father's favorite of his eight children. He left home last night stating that he would not return until he found the boy.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—Mr. Wenneker was appointed by President Harrison, and entered upon the duties of his office in November, 1889. His resignation is rather a surprise to many of his friends for he had declared that, while willing to give up his position, he would not resign.

A SHOCKING TRAGEDY

CARRIES HER, BLEEDING, TO SHELTER,

Returns to the Scene of His Crime, and There Blows His Own Brains Out with a Revolver, Dying Instantly.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 5.—A terrible tragedy occurred at Jamestown, Boone county, yesterday morning. It involves two of the most influential families of Boone county, and its bloody details have wrought the community up to a high pitch of excitement. For some time past Oscar Darnall, 23 years old, the son of Attorney W. J. Darnall, had been paying marked attentions to Miss Lillie Majors, the 14-year-old daughter of James Majors, a well-known lumber man. The girl's parents objected on account of her age and the youth's wildness.

Tuesday night he took her out for a buggy ride, and told her that they would go to Lebanon and be married.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning they were near the residence of Darnall's uncle, John Ashley, a mile from Jamestown. Here Darnall shot the girl in the mouth. He then stabbed her three times in the neck, one blow cutting the jugular vein. The girl was then lifted from the buggy and the horse turned loose. Darnall dragged the faintating girl to a straw-stack in an adjacent field and was there with her for some time. Finally he carried her to the Ashley residence and aroused the household. He stated that a mob had followed them from Jamestown and shot the girl

Mr. Ashley started at once for Jamestown in a buggy, accompanied by Darnall. When they passed the straw-stack Darnall asked to get out to recover something left there. He walked to the stack, and drawing his revolver shot himself in the forehead, dying instantly.

DOCTORS IN COUNCIL.

Nineteenth Annual Meeting of the Mississippi Valley Medical Association.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 5.—About fifty-five physicians were scattered among the seats of Plymouth church at 10:30 yesterday morning, when the first general session of the Mississippi Valley Medical association began. They were the first-comers of the nineteenth annual meeting, and their presence indicated that there will be a good attendance when all the doctors have arrived. The faces looking up to the speaker's were those of middle-aged and older men, most of them bearded, two or three with gray hair. W. H. Donley, the organist, was playing the Tannhauser overture as the doctors entered

Rev. Dr. Frederick Dewhurst opened the session with prayer.

George M. Cook, chairman of the committee on arrangement, introduced Gov. Matthews, who delivered a hearty welcome address.

After the governor's welcome the meeting quickly finished its routine business and the president, R. Stanbury Sutton, of Pittsburgh, read his address on "Fibroid Tumors of the Uterus," which took up the remainder of the morning and was of interest only to physicians

In the afternoon the members of the association met in sections, that on surgery at Plymouth church; that on general medicine at the Meridian-street church, and that on gynecology in another part of Plymouth church.

The profession of Indianapolis gave the visitors a reception at the Denison house last night.

The Gulf Quarantine at Chandleur Island Wrecked.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Surgeon-General Wyman, of the Marine hospital service, last evening received a telegram from Surgeon Guiteras at Biloxi, Miss., stating that the gulf quarantine at Chandleur Island, thirty-six miles off the coast of Mississippi, had been destroyed by the hurricane. It will require two months to repair the damages.

Surgeon Guiteras reports the probable death of Steward LaDucket, Lewis McKenzie, Simon Miller and two patients. The distance between the executive building and the station proper has prevented the obtaining of full particulars.

DAILY REPUBLICAN

DECATUR, ILLINOIS.

THURSDAY EVE., OCT. 5, 1893.

ALL the Democratic party now asks is to be "let alone."

APPLETON & Co. have just published the speeches and addresses of Gov. McKinley in a volume of 650 pages. The collection was made by Mr. Joseph P. Smith, of Ohio.

TROY Times: The Democratic press is now the same cringing, dough-faced and afraid-to-have-an-opinion-of-its-own institution that it was in 1860-61, when it cowed down in fear and trembling before its southern masters.

FRANK COLLIER, who has several times been in the insane asylum, went into the Cook county Democratic convention yesterday and announced that he had become a Democrat, and wanted the nomination for judge.

THE Democratic leaders know very well there is no danger from the Populist vote in the South. The vote cast in that section for Weaver in 1892, when we were told that vote would sweep several of these states, shows there is no danger.

GROVER CLEVELAND allows no Democrat to approach him without first having made known his business to the private secretary. The president is evidently determined to protect himself against Altgeld's friends who have been turned loose.

CHICAGO Inter-Ocean: The great question to every workingman and every man engaged in commercial affairs is, What are you going to do with the tariff? To talk about good times, with a Democratic inquisition sitting in a basement room of the National Capitol plotting the downfall of the American workshop, is simple nonsense.

SENATOR BUTLER, of South Carolina, spoke yesterday on the silver purchase repeal bill, and in his speech declared: "Compromise, compromise is the solution of the struggle here." The machine works well. South Carolina has not been heard demanding compromising since the Democrats went out of power in 1860. The Democrats are now again in power, and South Carolina is at the front to dictate its policy.

LAWRENCE T. NEAL challenged Major McKinley to a joint discussion Tuesday. Why Mr. Neal should desire to debate the tariff question with McKinley after Cleveland misconstrued the Democratic tariff plank he (Neal) wrote and which was adopted by a Democratic convention, is more than anybody with ordinary horse sense can see. Before any Democrat attempts to discuss the tariff with anybody he had better find out where his party "is at" on that and every other important question.

THE bricklayers association of Chicago passed a resolution at a recent meeting requesting Gov. Altgeld to call a special session of the legislature to find work for the unemployed. They seem to have forgotten that Grover Cleveland called a special session of congress to "start the wheels of industry" and that body is trying to start them with wind, while the Democratic free trade committee on ways and means is concocting a tariff to smash every industrial wheel in the country to smithereens.

IT becomes plainer each day that the workingmen are the first to suffer from business prostration. This being true, when coupled with the fact that congress is liable to pass a tariff bill that will seriously affect our industries, why is it that our laboring people do not avail themselves of the right of petition and flood congress with petitions asking it to let the present tariff act alone? or, if they think a free trade tariff act, which would operate to flood the country with foreign goods representing foreign labor, would be best for American workingmen, then petition congress to pass such a bill at once. These things are mighty important to every workingman.

Don't Forget.

SECTION 7. We denounce the Republican legislation known as the Sherman act of 1890 as a cowardly makeshift, fraught with possibilities of danger in the future which should make all of its supporters, as well as its author, anxious for a speedy repeal.

Don't forget that within three months after the election of Grover Cleveland the "author" of the "makeshift" and eighty per cent of the Republicans in congress were in favor of the repeal of the "makeshift," and the Democrats in congress would not help them repeal it. Don't forget that Grover Cleveland called congress (Democratic in both branches) in special session last August to repeal the "makeshift," and that that congress has been in session nine weeks and in that period the fact has been developed that 50 per cent of the Democrats are opposed to the repeal of the "makeshift," and one-half of the Democrats who are in favor of its repeal have been brought to that opinion by the liberal dispensation of patronage; and that while 80 per cent of the Republicans are in favor of the repeal, the Democratic leaders seem powerless to secure a vote on the repeal bill. Don't forget these things, for the reason that some Democratic organs will be lying about these events next fall.

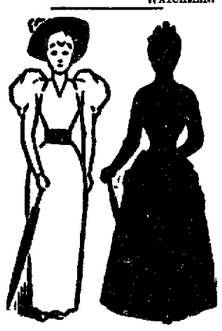
Will We Profit by Experience?

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—I met two Decatur workmen yesterday; both were good workmen, but they were out of work. Both are renters, and have families. Both of them spoke of the approach of winter and said, "We can't get work to support our families and pay our rent." Both declared they had never seen the future look so discouraging for getting bread for their families as at present. Both of these men voted the Democratic ticket, and both also declared the lesson they had learned by following the advice of the Democratic organs and Democratic speakers would last them the remainder of their lives.

I told them when they had seen as much of Democratic rule and free trade as I had seen the experience that they are now getting would not be forgotten very soon. There are hundreds of men who have grown up and voters since the war who have had no experience with free-trade Democracy, but if the Democrats live up to their platform, these young voters that voted the Democratic ticket last fall willl get an experience that will last them.

The Republican party has given the people the greatest and best government that any people have ever had. There never has been a political question before the American people that was for the purpose of protecting American workman and American industries against the ruinous competition of other nations that the Republicans did not support. In all such cases the Democratic leaders worked harder to favor the interests of other nations than to favor the interests of their own country. While these leaders alway declare this a great country, they oppose those who made it so. As soon as they got into power they began the work of robbing the old soldiers of the little pension allowed them for preserving the union of states, regardless of what it cost these soldiers to make this such a great country. When these leaders speak of this as the best government in the world, it does seem they should also be free to admit that Washington and his men, and later Lincoln and his men under the guidance of the Republican party, made it so. The fact that the dangerous policies of the Democratic party which, are again being rapidly reinaugurated, created the necessity for such a man as Lincoln, and such an army as he called to preserve the government, and such a party as the Republican party, ought to shame these latter day leaders into a reformation, or obscurity, if the ruin their return to power has already wrought does not do it.

WATCHMAN.



TWO KINDS OF WOMEN need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—those who want to be made strong, and those who want to be made well. It builds up, invigorates, regulates, and cures.

It's for young girls just entering womanhood; for women who have reached the critical "change of life"; for women expecting to become mothers; for mothers who are nursing and exhausted; for every woman who is run-down, delicate, or overworked.

For all the disorders, diseases, and weaknesses of women, "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, the money will be returned.

MISS JENNIE MEGHILL of Brighton England, has instituted suit against the "Sultan of Johore," otherwise known as Albert Baker (under which name he lived privately for a time) for a million or two on a charge of breach of promise of marriage. The Empress of India will watch the proceedings with much concern.

Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. THE METHODIST PASTORS

Warmly Welcomed at the Prayer Meeting Services.

At the regular prayer meeting service at the First M. E. church last night the lecture room was crowded. It was an extra occasion, and all members of the church, many of whom are not in the habit of attending that service, felt that they must be at the prayer meeting last night. The chief magnet perhaps was Rev. David F. Howe, the new pastor, who assumed charge of his duties, and conducted the service with as much ease and freedom as if he had been with the church a year. However, clergymen are not greatly disturbed usually by a change of location of work. Generally speaking Methodists are Methodists the world over, and the preachers never feel that they are going among strangers when they make a change. Rev. Howe gave an interesting talk on the topic of the evening from Acts xvi. The clergyman said he presumed it was the custom of the membership of the church to attend prayer meeting services regularly, but possibly many were present simply to see the new pastor. He said he would be present every Wednesday night and he hoped that everybody would be on hand. At the close of the service an opportunity was given everybody present to meet Rev. Howe and take him by the hand. All present were very favorably impressed with the new pastor, and no doubt the church will be crowded Sunday morning to hear his introductory sermon.

The Rev. H. H. Oneal, who has been returned to Grace M. E. church for another year, conducted a "Church Work" meeting at the church last night. Rev. Oneal has a new plan of work for the membership to follow and by vote it was adopted. In the course of his remarks Rev. Oneal said:

"The evangelistical work, or soul-saving, is one of the greatest duties of the church. We must do evangelistical work; we must have revivals. I think that the ideal church is the one that is continually saving souls. The relief work, is also very important, might be divided into two classes. The first is the relief of the sick, who are always with us. The second class is the relief of the poor, who are many and need our help. Now how are we to reach these three departments of work? I would have a system of visitation, have the members see each other in their own homes and give special attention to those who feel that they are neglected. Then we must look after the strangers. Those who come to church occasionally we must welcome, and those who do not come we must invite to come. By the evangelistic work I do not mean that we will hold protracted meetings all the time, but we must work with the different persons. There are many absentees from prayer and class meeting that ought to know we want them. I believe that cottage prayer meetings are a good thing. In addition to this there is a large class of people in every community, and especially here, who are floaters. We must reach this class of persons. We must try to meet them and interest them in the church. The young people of the church make a splendid field of work. It is the duty of the older members of the congregation to interest and help the young people in their share of the work. How are we going to accomplish all this? First, I would district the town and have part of the members visit the strangers and others, in each district. Others could labor with the prayer and class meeting absentees. There could be a committee to arrange and supervise a system of cottage prayer meetings and see that they are held. Then I would have a highway and hedge committee, to work with the floating element. Some could help the young people, and others could visit and aid the sick and poor. I have only given a very general outline of work, and I think it practical and important. I want every one to make any suggestion that will aid in the further arrangement of the plan, which would give work to every member of the church."

Mrs. D. S. Shellabarger, Mrs G R Steele, Mrs. W F. Dennis, Mrs. A W Conklin, Mr. Adams, Mr. Jeffres, Mr. Jones and Mr. Crane will meet with Rev. Oneal to arrange the details of the work outlined.

Pupils in a Dilemma.

The pupils at the Marietta Street school are in a quandary, and one with some show of indignation asked: "What can we play? What's the matter with the teachers?' Some time ago while playing "sweep" and "crack the whip" in the school yard, in the rush of the young people a little girl was thrown down and her shoulder broken. Both games were promptly abolished. Lately the children have struck a new craze. It is to attach strings to acorns or buckeyes and then swing them about, striking playfellows with more or less force. This game has become a little tough, as several pupils have complained to teachers that the sting was exceedingly painful. Yesterday all of the acorns were taken from the pupils and put in the waste basket to be burnt by the janitor. The children were told not to indulge in the acorn snap game on the school grounds. And that is why the children complain about rules which shut out games which seem to them harmless and full of fun. The pupils are subject to the rules of the teachers and as dutiful scholars they will obey.

Wanted—A Bright Day.

A bright day is all that is wanted by the members of the Volunteer Firemen's association, who have arranged for a round of athletic sport at the trotting park Oct. 19, to make the enterprise a grand success. All necessary arrangements are now complete, and the field day will doubtless attract a large crowd.

Another meeting was held last night at the council rooms, with George Kraft in the chair. On motion of W. W. Mason, the general committee was instructed to collect the merchandise offered as prizes. Chief Davore will arrange for the parade of the paid fire department. On motion of F. B. Muell-r, it was ordered that W. W. Mason go to Lincoln and B. W. Kincaid to Litchfield to work up interest in the coming tournament. There will be a hook and ladder contest for $50 cash. The Decatur Cycling club was invited to take part in the parade morning and evening.

WAGGONER-WISWELL.

A Quiet Wedding Yesterday at Okolona, Miss.

Charles B. Waggoner and Miss Stella Wiswell were united in marriage yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wiswell, at Okolona, Miss. The ceremony was witnessed by only the immediate friends and relatives of the couple.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Waggoner, and is a popular clerk at the Postoffice shoe store. The bride is well known here, where until the spring the family resided.

After an extended trip through the southern states and a return trip by boat up the Mississippi river, Mr. and Mrs. Waggoner will return home to commence housekeeping at once in a handsome cottage recently built and furnished by the groom on Herkimer street.

Three Hours at Dalton.

Quite a delegation of Decatur people visited Dalton City yesterday afternoon on business. Tom Bivins was there in the interest of the Wabash; F. W. Bartholomew in the interest of Morehouse, Wells & Co; Guy Lewis for Bartholomew's queensware establishment; C. A. Ewing looking after farming interests, and REPUBLICAN representatives to get a whiff of country air and visit Gen. John Shields, of the old 116th Illinois regiment. The General formerly resided in Long Creek township. He owns two detached acres of ground and three dwellings in the town of Dalton and is so well fixed that he does not have to work. Still he is always busy, and looks as vigorous as ever. It was the privilege of the newspaper visitor to take dinner with Gen. Shields and his family, a fine feast which was prepared in faultless style by Mrs. Shields who graces a happy home.

Dalton City is a stirring place, surrounded by the cream of the farming land in Moultrie county. The stores are well stocked and liberally patronized by the farmers of the neighborhood. It is a great center for the grain trade with C. J. Freeland as the chief buster in that line. He bought 2,000 bushels of oats yesterday. The dwellings are nice looking, the streets well-kept and the churches large and imposing. There are also good schools and a tile factory. The new postmaster has the office in one corner of a harness shop.

The Sugar Market.

Sugar is still scarce and a smart advance in price is expected. A few days ago a local company did not have any but a barrel of powdered sugar. Ten cars were ordered and three cars were sent. All orders of the refiners are cut down that way. That firm is now filling all orders, however. The refiners say the scarcity is due to the dull times in July and August, followed by an unusually early fall demand. Then when the short supply was first noticed many wholesalers rushed in big orders, on the principle that it was a good thing to have a big supply of anything that was scarce.

TUESDAY a committee from the Grand Army of the Republic of Illinois visited the Soldiers' Orphans' Home at Normal. The committee consisted of Messrs. Edward Kirk, of Englewood; H. Schumacher, of Chicago; J. F. Harrell, of Aurora; C. E. Duffy, Plano; H. T. Shaw, of Summer Hill; Z. P. Braun, of Paris; Isaac Zantis, of Dalton City, and C. F. Webb, of this city. Among other gentlemen present were Maj. E. A. Blodgett, of Chicago, department commander; Fred. W. Spink, assistant adjutant general of Illinois; J. H. Collier, of Gibson, and Trustee Edward Harland, of Marshall county.—Pantagraph.

LAST night Officers Coe, Mutherspaugh and Cross were called to the residence of P. W. Delaney, street commissioner, on East Wood street, to look after two strangers who were prowling about the place. Only a sleeper was found at the rear of the lot. He was taken in tow and lodged in the calaboose. He gave his name as D L Smith, with his home at Baltimore, Md. He said he had no connection with the two men who had a parley with Delaney.

OWING to the alarming prevalence of diphtheria in Springfield and the fact that a number of deaths have occurred, Mayor Kramer has called a special meeting of the board of health to consider the matter. One parochial school has been closed. Some alarm is felt among parents who have children in the public schools. The long drouth has poisoned the water in the wells, which is supposed to be the cause of the distemper.

IN Justice Short's court Phil Blenz paid a fine of $3 for striking Pat Clark, and then swore out a warrant for Clark's arrest for disorderly conduct. In Justice Odor's court P. P. Johnson, of Blue Mound, forfeited a cash bond to the amount of $5 30. Officer Lord had arrested Johnson for intoxication.

UNION PACIFIC MEN UNITE.

A Federation of Five Orders the Employes Formed.

The federation of the five orders on the Union Pacific that have declared in favor of federation was perfected Tuesday at a meeting held in Omaha. This was done in accordance with the agreement adopted by the grand chiefs at the meeting at Cedar Rapids April 6, last. The orders embraced in this federation are the Order of Railway Conductors, Order of Railway Telegraphers, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Switchmen's Mutual Aid association. They chose T. W. Wood, of the trainmen, chairman, and A. D. F. Reynolds, of the telegraphers, secretary. This federation comprises all orders except the engineers, and embraces 6,000 to 7,000 employes of the Union Pacific. The new organization informed Mr. Dickinson Tuesday that they would not accede to his reduction in wages and offered no substitute.

GENUINE DRESS REFORM.

Garments Should be Made for Comfort Rather That Show.

As time goes on and people grow more intelligent and, as a natural consequence, more intolerant of evils that stand merely from the force of tradition, the subject of dress reform for men and women will come more decidedly to the fore, and better costumes will unquestionably be devised and adopted. The reform idea is as yet in its most incipient condition, but having common sense and imperative necessity on its side, is bound to win in due course of time.

The most serious objection to immediate and radical reform seems to be the dread of ridicule; the idea appears to be fully rooted and grounded in the human mind that a certain amount of elaborateness is necessary to what is called becomingness in dress. It might be well to stop a moment and ask if this is so, and if so, why it is? A standard has been set for a perfect figure, and the close-fitting garment is becoming or ugly, according to the shape of the individual who wears it. As nine-tenths of the people who dress for effect are anything but models of perfection in figure, it stands to reason that they should cast about for trimmings, fixings, draperies and fripperies to modify to some degree or entirely conceal their inartistic outlines. The only other alternative is to pad and puff, to use quantities of buckram, whalebones and other accessories with which to make up their deficiencies or constrict their too solid flesh.

It is a rather interesting study to note the difference in the shape of the stout man and woman who have for any number of years dressed after the strictest rules of fashion. The flesh must go somewhere. No lacing or drawing in can make way with it, and misshapen and distorted bodies are in many cases the legitimate result of this slavery custom. If fashion and art could go hand in hand and make easy-fitting clothes the arbitrary costume of the day, health, happiness and grace would be more general, and coming generations would have less to regret and fewer sins to expiate. One of the first points in the dress of women is to raise the waist line. Instead of drawing in the figure below the ribs the belt should be put higher up. The empire dress is much the more healthful and comfortable. The slender waist is one of the most deadly possessions with which a foolish and fashion-ridden people ever found themselves handicapped. The breath is the life, and as one is deprived of it, so vitality becomes weak, the resisting power decreases and disease and death find ready and sometimes willing victims.

The blouse is an unmixed blessing either for men or women. There is no reason why a man should not wear a really handsome blouse of good material as a dressy garment. Take for example a blouse of black silk with dainty sleeve and neck ruffles of fine linen, rather wide turned-back cuffs, a prim conservative collar and lapels, if one chose, and a few plaits or folds artistically disposed. Why should not this make a very desirable morning-dress for a gentleman? This with fine gossamer underwear would be admirable in mid-summer and would do away with the burdensomeness of the coat, vest and thickly-starched dress-shirt front that can by no stretch of imagination be other than uncomfortable. Every garment should be made sufficiently loose to give absolute freedom of movement and this may be done without, in any sense, sacrificing symmetry, beauty or grace—indeed these elements appear to come in for the very least consideration in the general make-up of the toilet. To produce articles so tight that they wear out almost immediately is most to the advantage of those who make a business of designing such things. To this class of people we have bowed our necks in the most abject servitude, and it would seem quite time that we read to ourselves and the world a specially emphatic and comprehensive riot-act and followed it up with a far-reaching and unmistakable proclamation of emancipation.—N. Y. Ledger.

GONE OVER A DAY.

Testimony Ordered to be Written Out—Court Orders.

All day yesterday the lawyers, court and jury wrestled with the many fine points in the case of Emma L. McGregor vs. Willis Johnson, Jr., and A. R. Barteau, the plaintiff suing for $1,000 lost at the Barteau & Johnson gambling room by her husband, H. B. McGregor. Hon. W. G. Cochran and I. R. Mills appear for the plaintiff and Hugh Crea for the defendants. It is a somewhat unusual case, and naturally excites considerable interest among the sporting fraternity. The jurymen in the case are Henry Martin, John Fletcher, John Wright, Charles Thralfall, M. R. Fesler, Charles Buckley, C. W. Green, John Wheat, J. W. Rowe, C. M. Bateman, Hugh Hockaday and T. J. Osborne.

It appears that McGregor was flying pretty high and had money in a bank, and spent a considerable portion of his time in Decatur last May. He came over from Sullivan, and visited various gaming houses. He won and lost money, and when he put up all of his cash it was his habit to draw up checks and have them cashed. He claims to have lost money at faro and poker at Barteau & Johnson's place in the fore part of May, on which the $1,000 claim is based. The checks show that he had $85 cashed. In three days he test fied that he lost $300 and under the law it is possible for the plaintiff to recover $1,000. This forenoon the attorneys got into a tangle on just what the notes of the court reporter contained with reference to the McGregor testimony, the defence trying to show that McGregor was not at the place of the defendants the fore part of May, but during the latter part of the month. Mills, Cochran and Crea were unable to agree upon just what part of the transcript testimony they wanted to use, and then Judge Vail made an effort to sift it out. He failed, and quite unexpectedly to the attorneys and parties in interest, the court put a stop to the trial by excusing the jury till to-morrow morning. He then ordered Miss Vail to make type-written copies of the evidence of the stenographer and Mr. McGregor and have them ready for use when the hearing of the case is resumed, the expenses to be taxed up as costs in the case.

Lillian's Latest.

Lillian Lewis, the actress of $30,000 diamond garter fame, who with the garter on was seen at the Grand on Tuesday night in "Lady Lil," kicked up a big sensation at Springfield yesterday afternoon, when it is claimed she made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide. The company was at the opera house rehearsing for a new play, when Lillian broke out in a flood of tears because she was given such gloomy lines to speak. She fled to her dressing room and locked the door. A moment later two sharp reports of a pistol were heard in the room. The manager broke in the door, to find Miss Lewis in a dead faint on the floor with a 22-calibre pistol at her side. Miss Lewis soon recovered, but she was greatly excited. One bullet was found in the wall of the room, and the other had gone the dress over her heart, the bullet in its course just grazing the skin. Blood was flowing from the wound. Miss Lewis refused to let a doctor dress the wound, and she drove off to her hotel. She appeared last night as usual wearing the garter.

Investigating His Pension.

Judge Long, of Michigan, who, it will be remembered, was made one of the first victims of the present patriotic policy to make the pension roll a roll of honor by suspending his pension of $72 a month. It so happens that Judge Long was a good soldier, and unfortunately was so seriously wounded that ever since the war he has been totally disabled and required the help of an attendant, and for that reason he is inclined to question the right of the pension office to suspend him in bringing about this much-boasted pension reform. Yesterday he caused to be filed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia a writ of mandamus to compel the commissioner of pensions to restore his pension. If he is successful it will affect all suspension cases.

A ROW IN CAMP.

Trouble at the State W. C. T. U. Meeting at the Capital.

The annual state convention of the Illinois W. C. T. U. began yesterday at Springfield, and owing to a remark made by Mrs. L. S. Rounds, some ugly feeling was developed. Mrs. Eva M. Smith, one of Springfield's active white ribbon workers, asked that Mayor Kramer be invited to deliver the address of welcome, when Mrs. Rounds wanted to know if he was a prohibitionist. The inquiry was embarrassing to the mayor and was interpreted by Mrs. Smith as discourteous to her. The incident so wounded the latter's feelings that she left the meeting with the expressed intention not to return during the remaining sessions of the convention.

Considerable feeling was developed also among the delegates and the officers on account of a gesture made by the mayor just before beginning his talk. In the process of the gesture, according to the testimony of several ladies, his honor transferred a wad of half chewed tobacco from his mouth to his coat pocket. This was a very unhappy introduction to an address of welcome to temperance ladies because it gave a color of insincerity to the subsequent remarks written out for him by a friend. This impression was strengthened by the fact that the ladies detected the odor of a throat clearing cordial which did not bear the stamp of W. C. T. U. approval. The speaker appeared decidedly embarrassed, but after he had waded through the paper he was greeted with a feeble round of sympathetic applause.

Arrested for Forgery.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the police received a telegram to arrest Pierce Koons, aged 21, a machinist by occupation, for forgery committed at Fairbury Ill., Sept. 30, by which he secured $75. He is accused of forging the name of his uncle, J. N. Loonteon, Wabash train dispatcher at Forrest, to the check. An hour after the receipt of the message Officers Howes and Lord spotted Koons, and a short time later Marshal Lehman and Officer Hewes arrested Koons at the corner of East Eldorado and Morgan streets. He is in jail. He had no money on his person. He will be turned over to the Fairbury officials to stand trial.

ILLINOIS GRAND LODGE OF MASONS.

A Decatur Man Gets a Place in the List.

At the second day's session of the Illinois Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons at Chicago yesterday, the annual oration was delivered by George W. Warvells. His subject was "The Antiquity of Masonry." The report on obituaries showed that fewer deaths had occurred in the fraternity than for many years.

IN THE DUMPS.

The Ex-Queen of Hawaii Greatly Incensed—What She is Going to Do About It.

HONOLULU, Sept 26.—The reception tendered the officers and men of the United States steamship Boston took place last night. The executive building was beautifully decorated, and the recess behind the dais of the ex-queen's throne was devoted to the American flag. The ex-queen is much incensed at the desecration of her palace by these festivities, and declares that when she is restored to her royal prerogatives she will have another palace built. She is actively canvassing the natives for the election which she believes President Cleveland will order. The provisional government does not credit the election story.

Chinese Actors Refused Admittance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Collector Kilbreth decided that two alleged Chinese actors who arrived here last week from Havana on board the Ward line steamer Orizaba, and who have been detained on board the vessel since, must not land, and has ordered them back. The collector based his decision on evidence furnished by Inspector Scharf. Later a writ of habeas corpus was obtained, and the two Chinamen were handed over to the custody of a United States marshal.

Killed at a Railway Crossing.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—Thomas and John Ackleson, well-to-do farmers, were yesterday morning driving across the tracks of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway near Bulger station, when they were run down by an express train. John Ackleson was instantly killed and his brother Thomas was seriously wounded. Both horses were killed and the wagon demolished.

A Massachusetts Embezzler Located in Argentina.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 5.—It has been learned here that ex-Judge Eben Hutchinson, of the district court of the adjoining city of Chelsea, who was indicted by the grand jury for the embezzlement of numerous trust funds amounting to over $100,000 last year, and became a fugitive from justice, is now in the Argentine Republic, where no extradition laws can reach him.

Received the Ultimatum.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5.—The employes of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Southwestern and the Ohio Valley roads received Gen. Echol's ultimatum yesterday afternoon, which is a 10 per cent. cut. It takes a two-thirds majority to order a strike, and it is hardly probable that this will succeed.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

(FOR THE REPUBLICAN.)

Our love is dead!
Yet I would freely give
My very soul for our betrothal kiss;
To die, then, would be sweeter bliss
Than do refrain and live.
Since love is dead!

Our love is dead!
And yet from out the past
A spirit comes and whispers to my heart
Words that made the happy teardrops
start;
If spirit visits could but list—
But, love is dead!

SETTLERS IN NEW ENGLAND.

Weight of the French-Canadian Vote in Our Politics.

It is clear that the mass of the Canadians who are settled in New England are not rapidly becoming proprietors of the soil, their holdings, according to their own reports, being very much below the average per capita assessed valuations in the six states, as appears from the census of 1890. They remain operatives in the mills and factories; a few of them are storekeepers; fewer still are physicians and lawyers. Recently the French-Canadian press in the United States, and especially in New England, has rapidly developed. This is a pretty sure sign that the active politicians are taking a decided interest in the French-Canadian vote, and are prepared to avail themselves of the customary electioneering methods for the purpose of securing it.

In 1887 there were in New England 16,806 French-Canadian voters; in 1889 the number had increased to 28,465; in 1891 it had grown to be 33,663. In every one of the six states, except Vermont, votes equal in number to the solid French-Canadian vote would suffice to reverse the political supremacy if they should be transferred from the prevailing party to the minority. In the presidential election just held this vote played an important part, especially in Massachusetts. It is said that most of the French Canadians voted for the democratic candidate because of the injuries inflicted on the farmers of Quebec by the McKinley tariff. However that may be, it is the fact that the French-Canadian vote was a matter of much solicitude to the politicians of both parties, and it is its growing importance in American politics that makes the immigration of interest in this country.—Henry Loomis Nelson, in Harper's Magazine.
